14 § Redemption obligation

A shareholder whose relative holding of all the company's shares or the number of votes conferred by the shares – either alone or together with other shareholders as defined hereinafter – reaches or exceeds 1/3 or 1/2 (the Obligated Shareholder – i.e. the shareholder obliged to redeem), is obliged, at the demand of the other shareholders (the Entitled Shareholders – i.e. the shareholders entitled to sell their shares by way of redemption) to purchase their shares and the securities which according to the Limited Liability Companies Act give title to them, in the manner specified in this article.

When calculating a shareholder's relative holding of the company's shares voting rights, also those shares shall be counted which belong – to a corporate body which under the Limited Liability Companies Act belongs to the same group as the shareholder,

- to a company which, when preparing consolidated financial statements according to the Accounting Act, is counted as belonging to the same group as the shareholder,
- to a pension foundation or pension fund of the corporate bodies or companies referred to above, and
- to a corporate body or company other than a Finnish one, which – if it were Finnish – would under the Accounting Act belong to the same group as the shareholder as defined above.

If the redemption obligation arises on the basis of aggregate ownership stakes or numbers of votes, the Obligated Shareholders shall be obliged to jointly and severally redeem the shares from the Entitled Shareholders. In such a situation the redemption demand is deemed to be directed, even without a separate demand, at all the Obligated Shareholders.

If two shareholders reach or exceed the ownership or voting rights threshold carrying an obligation to redeem such that both simultaneously have the redemption obligation, an Entitled Shareholder can demand a redemption from both of them separately.

The redemption obligation does not apply to shares or warrants which a shareholder demanding a redemption has acquired after the redemption obligation has arisen.

Redemption price

The redemption price of shares is the higher of the following:

- a) the weighted average of the trading prices of the shares during the last ten (10) trading days on Helsinki Stock Exchange before the day when the company received from the Obligated Shareholder the notice of reaching or exceeding the above-specified ownership or voting rights threshold or, should this notice not be given or fail to arrive by the deadline, the day when the company's Board of Directors was otherwise informed of it;
- b) the average price, weighted by the number of shares, which the Obligated Shareholder has paid for the shares which the shareholder has purchased or otherwise received during the last twelve (12) months preceding the date referred to in paragraph a above.

If any transfer affecting the average price is denominated in foreign currency, its counter value will be calculated in Finnish marks according to the exchange rate confirmed for the currency concerned by the Bank of Finland seven (7) days before the day on which the Board of Directors notifies the shareholders of the possibility of redeeming the shares.

The above provisions concerning the determination of the redemption price for shares shall also be applied to other securities subject to redemption.

Redemption procedure

Within seven (7) days of the date when the obligation to redeem has arisen, the Obligated Shareholder shall notify the company's Board of Directors thereof in writing to the company's address. The notification shall contain particulars of the number of shares held by the Obligated Shareholder as well as the numbers and prices of the shares which the Obligated Shareholder has acquired or otherwise received during the past twelve (12) months. The notification shall also indicate the address at which the Obligated Shareholder can be reached.

The Board of Directors shall inform shareholders that a redemption obligation has arisen within 30 days of the date when it has received the notification referred to above or, in the absence of the said notification or if it fails to arrive by the deadline, when the Board has otherwise been informed that a redemption obligation has arisen. The notification shall contain particulars of the date when the redemption obligation arose and the grounds for determining the redemption price to the extent that the Board has knowledge of them, as well as the final date when the demand to redeem must be made. The notification to shareholders shall be made in accordance with the provisions of Article 11 of the Articles of Association concerning the delivery of a notice of meeting.

An Entitled Shareholder shall demand the redemption in writing within 30 days of announcement of the Board's notice concerning the obligation to redeem. The redemption demand delivered to the company must show the number of shares and other securities that the demand concerns. The shareholder demanding redemption shall at the same time deliver to the company any share certificates or other documents entitling the shareholder to receive shares so that these can be handed over to the Obligated Shareholder against the redemption price.

If no demand has been presented by the deadline in the manner specified above, the shareholder's right to demand redemption shall lapse in respect of the said redemption situation. An Entitled Shareholder shall have the right to cancel the demand as long as the redemption has not taken place.

When the time allowed to the Entitled Shareholders has elapsed, the Board of Directors shall inform the Obligated Shareholder of the redemption demands that have been presented. The Obligated Shareholder shall, within 14 days of having received notification of redemption demands, remit the redemption price in the manner specified by the company against transfer of the shares and their warrants or, if the shares are to be redeemed are registered in book-entry securities accounts of the respective shareholders, against a receipt issued by the company. In that case, the company must see to it that the redeemed shares are immediately transferred to the redeemer's book-entry securities account.

A redemption price which has not been remitted by the deadline will be subject to annual interest for late payment in accordance with the provisions of the Interest Act (633/82) calculated from day when the redemption should have been carried out at the latest. Should an Obligated Shareholder furthermore fail to observe the above provisions concerning the obligation to inform, the interest for late payment will be calculated from the day when the obligation to inform should have been met at the latest.

Other provisions

The obligation to redeem referred to in this article does not apply to a shareholder who can demonstrate that the ownership or voting rights threshold carrying the redemption obligation has been reached or exceeded before public trading of the company's shares has commenced.

Any disputes arising out of the redemption obligation described above, the associated right to demand a redemption or the amount of the redemption price shall be settled through arbitration in accordance with the regulations of the Arbitration Act (967/92). The arbitration procedure shall be governed by Finnish law.
